TWO SOURCES OF TRUTH

The Tree of Knowledge of Good and Evil includes:

- worldly knowledge of what is right and wrong, incl. philosophy
- the letter of the Law of God, and dead religion based on compliance to the dead letter of law
- man-made compliance to law, and man-made changes in outward behavior
- focus on self (either by corruption of self or by self-righteousness)
- a false trust that worldly philosophy and other fruit of the Tree of Knowledge of Good and Evil will expose Satan. (It doesn't- his masquerade as an Angel of Light is not exposed by this tree's fruit.)
- what is called in Scripture "the flesh"
- leads to death, not to mention also producing in the mind lasciviousness, doublemindedness, and pride in what one knows
- the goodness of man (his vain attempts) and his pride in his achievements
- popular-- includes many man-made church agendas and benevolence which aren't spirit-directed

The Tree of Life includes:

- a fear of God, peace, God-centered knowledge that is relevant to what God is doing and therefore wisdom
- the spirit of the Law, a living faith and a relationship with YHWH God
- Spirit-made changes in the heart
- focus on Christ, the Spirit, and the Heavenly Father
- exposes Satan and his influences by correctly using the living Word of God written by the Spirit, along with the guidance of the Spirit.
- what Scripture calls "the spirit"
- leads to life, not to mention a renewed sound mind and humility to learn from the master teacher and from others.
- the goodness of God and glory for His achievements and wisdom
- unpopular - "A natural man does not accept the things of the Spirit of God: for they are foolishness to him, and he cannot understand them...1 Cor 2:14

The Logic Problem:

GOD is OMNIPOTENT (almighty)

GOD is OMNISCIENT (all knowing)

GOD is wholly GOOD yet EVIL exists (there is something in the finite universe created by that being called Almighty God which is evil).

Insufficient answers:

- to advise "JUST HAVE FAITH"
- to declare THAT THERE IS NO CONTRADICTION
- APOLOGISTS EMPTY ALL THE TERMS OF THEIR USUAL MEANINGS INTO VAGUE TERMS
- to declare that WE ONLY "SEE THROUGH A GLASS DARKLY"

These insufficient answers leave many reasonable persons deeply disturbed by the absurdity of conventional belief in God. Some have decided that human life is self-defeating, tragic and absurd.

BETTER ANSWERS:

- to show that every mathematical, scientific & philosophical system has vagueness and contradictions within their principles. Philosophers can not define and defend their own criteria of meaning without employing self-defeating arguments. All philosophy and mathematical systems have paradoxes when one pushes to get total clarity of terms. One has to EITHER accept a. some vagueness of terms or b. accept paradox with extremely clear terms.
- Common sense of human existence means we must accept the contradictions that accompany the complexity of the sense and nonsense of our spiritual environment.
- The problem of evil is actually a sign that reveals that there are deep issues of life that must be plumbed, like a crack in the earth's crust that plunges out of sight.
- God can view evil in a different view, because He is above time, and knows that with His unlimited power, all things will work for good to them that love God. God has unlimited power to bring something good out of evil. Proof of this ability is found in the life, death and resurrection of Christ.
- In order to bring true love into human existence, God had to allow choice, which includes the choice of rejection and disobedience by his Creation. After a period of allowing mankind to choose to love Him, God promises to destroy evil.

SATAN uses TRAUMA as a vehicle to program into us a LIE.

FIRST, a trauma is applied.

SECOND, a lie is offered which when accepted alleviates or improves the pain of the trauma.

THIRD, systems of lies are built to trap us within the confines of the lies we believe in.

For instance:

A Christian's life is cut short by Satan. The lie that is offered the survivors is "God owes every person a full, happy, prosperous, 70-80 year life." God is then blamed "Why did God let this happen?" The resulting bitterness opens up a door for a person to get into immorality, which further entraps the person.

The reality is:

- If God gave us what we deserved in our weak sinful nature, none of us would be alive, because mankind is in rebellion to God their Creator.
- People need to focus on what we have received from God, not what we haven't received.
- To focus on what wasn't given, rather than the great gifts that have been given is ungratefulness.

THEREFORE,

When a trauma is applied to our life, we can use that trauma to program a lie into our life, or we can grow spiritually by seeing the deeper spiritual realities that the trauma is teaching us about.

Facing problems together in a marriage will draw people together or split them apart. The couple will either see deeper spiritual realities and bond, or they will attach themselves to the LIES that Satan provides to alleviate the pain.

CHRIST'S LIFE IS PROOF THAT GOD HAS THE ABILITY TO TURN EVIL INTO GOOD

Almighty God will also turn the suffering caused by evil into good in the life of a Christian in the following ways:

a. use suffering to take our eyes off of trivial things, to see deeper eternal realities.

b. to develop FAITH (RM 10:9), VIRTUE (1 PTR 2:9), KNOWLEDGE (RM 12:2), SELF-CONTROL (MT 6:19), ENDURANCE (1 PTR 4:12), GODLINESS (RM 8:29), BROTHERLY KINDNESS (2 COR 1:4) and LOVE (COL. 1:29) in His people.

In other words, the suffering from evil we want to escape is the soil that God plants us in order that we would grow into the godly people He wants us to be.

"But the God of all grace, who hath called us unto His eternal glory by Christ Jesus, after that ye have suffered a while, make you perfect, stablish, strengthen, settle you" 1 PTR 5:10

c. to confirm that we are a special royal people, a kingdom of kings and priests.

- GOD is the SPIRIT OF TRUTH (He serves as the light of New Jerusalem)
- GOD is the LIFE-GIVER (the water & trees of fruit of the New Jerusalem)
- GOD is the LAW-GIVER (the New Jerusalem has a great wall and order)
- GOD is LOVE, our friend (the New Jerusalem has its own glory, warm sun & worship)
- GOD is a CONSUMING FIRE, a JUDGE (the Great White Throne of the New Jerus.)
- GOD is unchanging, the same yest./today/tomorrow, treats all equal, it rains on the just & the unjust, in other words He is EQUITABLE person becomes a slave to his own project. This is not the Plan, and if the condition continues uncorrected, physical society will collapse upon the individual, burying him beneath the debris of his own productions.

With the rise of materialism, the Secret Societies were concealed from the profane, not by any elaborate machinery of their own, but by popular disbelief. There was no place for sacred institutions in minds already dedicated to scientific skepticism. The importance of invisible principles over visible purposes and ambitions was simply ignored. Only that small minority which remained true to a higher standard of values continued to be concerned with inviolable outcome. For the majority, the physical world with its wonders was sufficient to absorb all available time and interest. The result is obvious. The physical state of man enlarged, and his ethical horizons were appropriately narrowed.

The old adversaries were gone. The power of the Church and State to plague the destiny of the average man was broken. It was no longer needful to struggle against the despotism of feudalism or the perversities of princes. The Inquisition had lost its terror, and theology was unable to impose its traditional formulas upon a down-trodden laity. But the ills that men must bear changed their appearance, not their substance. The authority of science took the place left vacant by the departing authorities of aristocracy and theology. It was still necessary for the human spirit to struggle against the intolerances of the human mind.

Personal ambitions, liberated by the new code of freedom, immediately began to dream of supremacy. A vast concept, highly competitive in principle and highly destructive in practice, perpetuated most of the instruments of the old tyranny. Siegfried had slain the dragon, but was in grave danger of being drowned in the blood that flowed from the mortal wound. Having overcome the degradation of entrenched classes, humanity discovered the degradation in itself. It was faced with the unhappy realization that tyrannical systems are only syntheses of those tyrannical instincts which exist in all creatures until they are overcome by enlightened understanding.

From Manly P. Hall's History of the World of the Future, 1928.

THE REVELATION OF THE GREAT SEALS.

Professor Charles Elton Thomas of Harvard described the design of the Great Seal as follows: "The design adopted by Congress in 1776, and adopted by the delegates to the Constitutional Convention in 1787, is a shield with a constellation of stars. The shield is surrounded by a wreath. The shield is supported by two figures, a man and a woman. The man is holding a sword and the woman is holding a scroll. The shield is inscribed with the words 'E PLURIBUS UNUM'." This is one of the important sources of information that have been conventionally spread.

It is evident that the continued operations of the genuine Secret Societies make it unwise to describe them or identify their members. Humanity has not yet reached a state of collective security in which leadership beyond the political sphere is unnecessary. The need for guidance actually increases with the complexity of mundane affairs. All of sincere heart find consolation in the conviction that powers beyond and above human corruption continue to administer the destiny of the globe. It would be a mistake to confuse this governing body with the various sects which pretend to authority, but give no indications or proof that they can manage efficiently even their own affairs.

A SECRET GOVERNING BODY CONTROLS THE GLOBE- NOT THE VARIOUS RELIGIOUS GOVERNING BODIES THAT PRETEND TO RULE.

All of sincere heart find consolation in the conviction that powers beyond and above human corruption continue to administer the destiny of the globe. It would be a mistake to confuse this governing body with the various sects which pretend to authority, but give no indications or proof that they can manage efficiently even their own affairs.

MANLY PALMER HALL, 33°, G.:C.:

ILLUSTRIOUS MANLY PALMER HALL, often called "Masonry's Greatest Philosopher," departed his earthly labors peacefully in his sleep on August 7, 1990, in Los Angeles, California. Although born in Peterborough, Ontario, on March 18, 1901, Brother Hall moved to California in 1919 and devoted his life to lecturing, teaching, editing, and writing on all aspects of Freemasonry.

The author of over 50 books and more than 65 smaller works, illustrious Hall was also the founder and a past President of the Philosophical Research Society of Los Angeles, California. He is best known for writing The Lost Keys of Freemasonry (1923), The Dionysian Artificers (1926), Masonic Orders of Fraternity (1950) and, of course, his monumental Encyclopedic Outline of Masonic history, philosophy and related subjects.

A member of the Scottish Rite Bodies in the Valley of San Francisco, Brother Hall was made a Mason in San Francisco's Jewel Lodge No. 374 and received the Scottish Rite's highest honor, the Grand Cross, in 1985 because of his exceptional contributions to Freemasonry, the Scottish Rite, and the public good.

Like Grand Commander Albert Pike before him, Ill.: Hall did not teach a new doctrine but was an ambassador of an ageless tradition of wisdom that enriches us to this day. His piety, wisdom, warmth, and humility have touched the lives of millions in America and around the globe. The world is a far better place because of Manly Palmer Hall, and we are better persons for having known him and his work.

the second Ray of Love-Wisdom. Christ through it and by its means seeks to contact public. It is the leaven in His hands to lump, and being in a form comprehended can touch the great masses of seeking souls. In the educational work of the world, the Christ reaches those of the intelligent public who are not reached by means of ceremonial and symbolism, but by religious means and ritual, as in the Church. The masses and those in whom the inner predominates to the lessening of the outer are those men who are predominantly on the Ray of Intelligent Activity.

There are to be found esoteric groups everywhere. The mediums of the inner teaching and whose technique is one. These groups consist of occult students and of those who are in direct touch with the Masters and of those who have sufficient control so that the will of the Master is communicated and gradually filter down through the physical brain. These groups which are the inner esoteric group are many, but their number is small, for the fact that a student may be in the outer esoteric groups so-called is no indication of esoteric status. When the few who are students of the world know the difference between astral forms, between mental clairvoyance and their astral counterparts, between the elements of nature and the elements of nature, Christ and His church have a real contact with the physical plane and the outer organisation. That is why it is necessary to train the students at this time and train them in occultism. When we understand better the law of prevision, and of force in movement, we comprehend more fully the laws that govern the bodies, and through them therefore the work on the planes whereon those bodies express themselves, then will there be more intelligent and more useful work offered in cooperation with the Occult Hierarchy.

In the esoteric group, which is composed of the true spiritual esotericists found in all exoteric occult groups, in the church, by whatever name it may be called, and in Masonry you have the three paths leading to initiation. As yet they are not used, and one of the things that will eventuate—when the new universal religion has sway and the nature of esotericism is understood—will be the utilisation of the banded esoteric organisms, the Masonic organism and the Church organism as initiating centres. These three groups converge as their inner sanctuaries are approached. There is no dissociation between the One Universal Church, the sacred inner Lodge of all true Masons, and the innermost circles of the esoteric societies. Three types of men have their need met, three major rays are expressed, and the three paths to the Master are trodden, leading all three to the same portal and the same Hierophant.

It must not be forgotten that only those souls who are on the Probationary Path or the Path of Discipleship will form the nucleus of the coming world religion. It exists on the inner planes for the purpose of gathering out of all the churches those who have reached the point in evolution where they can consciously and of their own free will place their feet upon that PATH which leads to the centre of peace; who can in full awareness turn their eyes upon the Great Lord, and transmute the life of worldly endeavour into the life of service. The first detachment gathered into the coming Church will be found to be a part of the present great band of servers. These have, down the ages, been associated with the Christ in His work. Remember always the fact of the work He did in connection with the last advent, and remember likewise that in the turning of the cyclic wheel, in the evolution of the spiral, similar conditions will eventuate, the same needs arise, and the same egos incarnate that were present in the days of old in Palestine. The numbers of those associated with Him will be greatly increased.

INTRODUCTORY.

In placing the present work before the public I have no apology whatever to offer, and this for several reasons. First, because I have been ordered to prepare it, and Second, because much of what I herein give is not new, for the simple reason that there can be nothing new in Masonry. True, many a thing, especially what concerns Mystic Masonry, has not been given to a profane people, but this is not to say that it is new, for it is not.

I know that the present work will stand unchallenged as to the Truths it contains, and this for the reason that I quote from the highest Masonic authorities in the work, and that which concerns Mystic Masonry comes direct from him who knows and who has no superior in this work.

I also know that I will not be accused of stealing, for the very good reason that I give credit for every single quotation, unless it was changed. With these facts before me I can feel well satisfied to let it go forward.

There are several reasons why this book should go before the people, and especially before Masons themselves. Too little is known by my Brother Masons concerning that Order to which they have the honor to belong, but which some of them do not honor and the

MASONRY IS CONNECTED TO THE ANCIENT SYSTEMS OF PRIESTHOOD.

Says John A. Weiss, M.D., in his "Obelisk and Freemasonry:"

"According to our reading of history, the Priesthoods of Belus, or Baal in Assyria, of Osirus in Egypt, of Jehova in Palestine, of Jupiter in Greece and Rome, of Ahura-Mazda in Persia, or Brahma in India, and of Teutates in Britain, were Primitive Secret Societies, who instructed and governed the primitive families and races. It little matters whether we call the members of those priesthoods Belites, Pastophori, Levites, Curetess, Mage, Brahmins, or Druids; they were connected by Secret Ties, and intercommunicated from the Indus to the Tiber, from the Nile to the Thames. Hence there ever has been, is, and ever will be Freemasonry on our planet.

217. "Freemasonry does not profess to interfere with the religious opinions of its members. It asks only for a declaration of that simple and universal faith, in which men of all nations and all sects agree—the belief in a God and in his superintending providence. Beyond this, it does not venture, but leaves the minds of its disciples, on other and sectarian points, perfectly untrammelled. This is the only religious qualification required by a candidate, but this is most strictly demanded. The religion, then, of Masonry, is pure theism, on which its different members engraft their own peculiar opinions; but they are not permitted to introduce them into the lodge, or to connect their truths or falsehood with the truth of Masonry."*

218. "Every Mason," says the old Charges of 1722, "is obliged by his tenure to obey the moral law." Now, this moral law is not to be considered as confined to the decalogue of Moses, within which narrow limits these ecclesiastical writers technically restrain it, but rather as alluding to what is called Lex Naturae, or the law of nature. This law of nature has been defined by an able, but not recent writer on this subject, to be "The will of God, relating to human actions, grounded on the moral differences of things; and because discoverable by natural light, obligatory upon all mankind."** This is the "Moral law," to which the old Charge already cited refers, and which it de-these pearls of great price were guarded and handed on with slight modifications into the possession of those grand early Christians, the Gnostics, the so-called heretics; then straight from the Gnostic schools of Syria and Egypt to their successors, the Manichæans, and from these through the Paulicians, Albigenses, and Templars to the Hermetics, the Rosicrucians, and other less powerful Secret Fraternities—these Occult traditions, or rather, Occult Truths, have been bequeathed to the Mystic bodies of our own times. Persecuted by Protestants on one side and by Catholics on the other, the history of Mysticism, outside of the Rosicrucian Fraternity, is a history of martyrdom."<sup>123</sup> "These principal streams of religious thought can be traced distinctly as we struggle through the labyrinth of evidence, and these may not inappropriately be termed the Petrine, Pauline, and Johannine doctrines, the last being the fountain-head of all the later Christian Mystical heresies. The Johannine doctrine caused great excitement in the fourteenth century. It must be borne in mind that the true Occultism, the real Mysticism, is essentially religious in its nature, and students must not be surprised to find that some of the historical religious sects—many of the principal secret societies take St. John as their patron saint, notably is this the case with many of the Masonic bodies—had their foundation in Occultism and Mysticism before stated, the Occult doctrines of the Gnostics were heirlooms and sacred traditions from a very distant past, and when the early Christians are dawned, the human race had long been plunged in the darkening and materializing tendencies of the Black Ages. Soon the Gnosis was rejected by the orthodox church, and the Secret and Secret teachings of the Great Master, Jesus, became materialized; they have, however, never been lost, and traces of them can be discerned from epoch to epoch.

124. "The Masonic movement, to state it generally, was at first a sort of broad, semi-mystic and largely moral movement, worked from certain unknown, to them, centers, and deriving its origin from the Ancient and not generally known basis.

125. It never had anything to do with Operative Masonry or the Builders' Guild. Masonry was founded on the Ancient Wisdom Religion, and when founded was not known as Masonry.

126. Its basis was, and is, unknown to all of those who do not recognize a definitely spiritual guidance in the practical, mental, and moral developments which from time to time change the surface by the introduction of new factors into the evolving processes of which life consists. Researches into Masonic literature must be made in many languages and countries before this view can be firmly established for the general world, but to students of Mysticism and who are also students of Masonry it becomes more and more apparent that the movement which is generally termed Masonic had its roots in that true Mysticism which originated, as an Ideal effort, from the Spiritual Hierarchy which guides the evolution of the world; and that, however much the branches may be separated from the root-idea, there is nevertheless a Mystic earth will then sink down into Duzukh, and become for three periods a place of punishment for the wicked. Then, by degrees, all will be pardoned, even Ahriman and the Devils, and admitted to the regions of bliss, and thus there will be a new Heaven and a new earth."

In the doctrines of Lamaism also, we find, obscured, and partly concealed in fiction, fragments of the primitive truth. For, according to that faith, "There is to be a final judgment before ESRAK KHAN: The good are to be admitted to Paradise, the bad to be banished to hell, where there are eight regions burning hot and eight freezing cold."

In the Mysteries, wherever they were practised, was taught that truth of the primitive revelation, the existence of One Great Being, Infinite and pervading the Universe, Who was there worshipped without superstition; and His marvellous nature, essence, and attributes taught to the Initiates; while the vulgar attributed His works to Secondary Gods, personified, and isolated from Him in fabulous independence.

These truths were covered from the common people as with a veil; and the Mysteries were carried into every country, that, without disturbing the popular beliefs, truth, the arts, and the sciences might be known to those who were capable of understanding them, and maintaining the true doctrine incorrupt; which the people, prone to superstition and idolatry, have in no age been able to do; nor, as many strange aberrations and superstitions of the present day prove, any more now than heretofore. For we need but point to the doctrines of so many sects that degrade the Creator to the rank, and assign to Him the passions of humanity, to prove that now, as always, the old truths must be committed to a few, or they will be overlaid with fiction and error, and irretrievably lost.

Though Masonry is identical with the Ancient Mysteries, it is so in this qualified sense; that it presents but an imperfect image of their brilliancy; the ruins only of their grandeur, and a system that has experienced progressive alterations, the fruits of social events and political circumstances. Upon leaving Egypt, the Mysteries were modified by the habits of the different nations among whom they were introduced. Though originally moral, moral and political than religious, they soon became the heritage, as it were, of the priests, and essentially religious, though in reality limiting the sacerdotal power, by teaching the intelligent laity the folly and absurdity of the creeds of the populace. They were therefore necessarily changed by the religious systems of the countries into which they were transplanted. In Greece, they were the Mysteries of Ceres; in Rome, of Bona Dea, the Good Goddess; in Gaul, the School of Mars; in Sicily, the Academy of the Sciences; among the Hebrews, they partook of the rites and ceremonies of a religion which placed all the powers of government, and all the knowledge, in the hands of the Priests and Levites. The pagodas of India, the retreats of the Magi of Persia and Chaldea, and the pyramids of Egypt, were no longer the sources at which mankind drank in knowledge. Each people, at all informed, had its Mysteries. After a time the Temples of Greece and the School of Pythagoras lost their reputation, and Freemasonry took their place.

Masonry, when properly expounded, is at once the interpretation of the great book of nature, the recital of physical and astronomical phenomena, the purest philosophy, and the place of deposit, where, as in a Treasury, are kept in safety all the great truths of the primitive revelation, that form the basis of all religions. In the modern Degrees three things are to be recognized: The image of primeval times, the tableau of the efficient causes of the Universe, and the book in which are written the morality of all peoples, and the code by which they must govern themselves if they would be prosperous.

The Kabalistic doctrine was long the religion of the Sage and the Savant; because, like Freemasonry, it incessantly tends toward spiritual perfection, and the fusion of the creeds and nationalities of Mankind. In the eyes of the Kabalist, all men are his brothers; and their relative ignorance is, to him, but a reason for instructing them. There were illustrious Kabalists among the Egyptians and Greeks, whose doctrines the Orthodox Church has accepted; and among the Arabs were many, whose wisdom was not slighted by the Medieval Church.

The Sages proudly wore the name of Kabalists. The Kabalah embodied a noble philosophy, pure, not mysterious, but symbolic. It taught the doctrine of the Unity of God, the art of knowing and explaining the essence and operations of the Supreme Being, of spiritual powers and natural forces, and of determining their action by symbolic figures; by the arrangement of the alphabet, he finds that which he has sought and which has been deeply hidden yet close at hand. He must learn that the experience which 'travel in foreign countries' and the arduous task of the Builder has given, is the only thing that can fit him to join the ranks of the Master Masons of the Universe, and carry on the eternal quest in company with all brothers.

This is the revelation which the passage of the candidate through all the degrees conveys. In the first three degrees we have depicted for us the search of the individual for light, wisdom and life. In the higher degrees there is given us the varying aspects of the universal search (by the collective whole) in the various ways, and in the many lands and through the diverse religions, for the final revelation for which the so-called Blue Lodge has prepared the candidate. Subtle and illusive indications are given also of that organised and intelligent activity which is carried on by that Grand Lodge of Master Masons who have for ages watched over humanity and guided men steadily in the way of light.

Little as it may be realised by the unthinking Mason who is interested only in the outer aspects of the Craft work, the whole fabric of Masonry may be regarded as an externalisation of that inner spiritual group whose members, down the ages, have been the Custodians of the Plan, and as Those to Whom has been committed the working out of the will of God for the race of men. These Master Masons, to whom T.G.A.O.T.U.

has given the design and Who are familiar with the tracing board of the G.M. on high, are called by many names and are known at different times by various appellations. They can be referred to as Christ and His Church—that band of disciples who follow in the footsteps and work under the inspiration of the great Carpenter of Nazareth. They can be known by others as the Masters of the Wisdom for They are skilled in the divine ways and have mastered the arts and sciences which Their fellowmen have yet to master. They are the Dispensers of Light and to Them has been given, by virtue of Their achievement, the privilege and the authority to pronounce the great Masonic formula: 'Let there be light' and to evoke the response: 'And there was LIGHT'.

They are therefore sometimes known as the Illuminati and can direct the searchlight of truth wherever its beams are needed to guide the pilgrim on his way. They are the Rishis of the oriental philosophy, the Builders of the occult tradition and those individualities of outstanding wisdom, strength and beauty of character Who have guided, by precept and example, the faltering steps of blinded and ignorant humanity. They are the bestowers of the privileges and benefits of initiation, and They prepare the candidate for those great revelations and expansions of consciousness which are the reward of all who persevere in the quest, and thus learn to work in the Temple of the Lord. Step by step They guide the candidate until he has gained the right to stand in the East before the Presence, and there, before the brethren, prove himself initiate. Stage by stage They assist at the unfolding of the consciousness of the candidate until, at the time comes when he can 'enter into light' and, in his turn become a light-bearer, one of the Illuminati who can assist the Lodge on High in bringing humanity to light. Silently and with full understanding They watch the initiate go down to the gates of death in order to prosecute the search for the Master's Word and, in defence of his ideals is slain by those with whom he has worked. Then they too go down to the G. . . . wherein the Master lies, and through Their united effort and by the strength of Their joint endeavour They raise him to the fullness of life and service, giving him that secret which must suffice to guide him in his search until the time comes when the race (as one united whole) has proved itself fit to receive the true L.W. Then humanity can be admitted to that high and holy Temple where reigns the Triune God.

The rites, ceremonies and initiations of Masonry may be regarded (and are so regarded by many) as being faint representations and symbolic rehearsals of those major spiritual initiations through which every human being must pass before achieving his goal of manifested divinity and can enter finally within the veil, leaving behind him an example of fortitude and self-control which his fellow men can emulate. THE MASONIC LODGE LIKES TO RECRUIT PRESIDENTS TO SERVE AS FIGUREHEADS. HERE ARE U.S. PRESIDENTS WEARING MASONIC REGALIA. POWER IN THE MASONIC LODGES IS ULTIMATELY IN THE CONTROL OF SATANISTS. This Author has received reports from ex-high ranking Masons that all U.S. Presidents this 20th century have been Masons, but there is no way yet to confirm this. Johnny Todd, who was part of the Illuminati and who was in charge of all the political/drug/occult activity in his 13 state jurisdiction, before coming to Christ in 1972, states that all U.S. Presidents of this 20th century have not only been Masons, but have been 35 degree Freemasons of the the super-secret Rite of the Warrior for all who knew Him in earlier incarnations in the ancient East, all whom He cured or taught, all who contacted Him or in any way incurred karma with Him or with the Master Jesus, will have the opportunity to cooperate at this time. Each sincere aspirant who is closely connected with the present Church organisations, who feels a close link with the Christ and who loves Him, can be practically sure that in Palestine they saw Him, knew Him and mayhap served and loved Him.

The sacraments, properly understood, serve to strengthen this link and realisation, and such a one as that of Baptism (when entered upon with understanding) will draw forth oft a response from the Great Lord Himself. It is almost as if a golden strand were directed from His heart to the heart of the servant—a strand unbreakable and unfathomable and which, with each administration of any of the holy rites in the succession of lives, becomes stronger, broader and brighter. Eventually these many strands will become reabsorbed into their source when the Body of the Christ—one of the seven Heavenly Men on the second or monadic plane—is completed in full expression, for each one linked to Him becomes, in a vital sense, a cell in His Body. This the initiate Paul truly sensed and knew. Via this strand passes the power to strengthen, to stimulate, to vivify and to bless, and this is the true apostolic succession. All true disciples are priests unto the Lord.

There is no question therefore that the work to be done in familiarising the general public with the nature of the Mysteries is of paramount importance at this time. These Mysteries will be restored to outer expression through the medium of the Church and the Masonic Fraternity, if those groups leave off being organisations with material purpose, and become organisms with living objectives. When the Great One comes with His disciples and initiates we shall have (after a period of intensive work on the physical plane beginning around the year 1940) the restoration of the Mysteries and their exoteric presentation, as a consequence of the first initiation. Why can this be so? Because the Christ, their work be accomplished it is not sufficient that they have the needed vision. This vision must be communicated. It must be extended throughout human society until humanity redeems itself by the experience of enlightenment. The security that the world seeks cannot be bestowed; it must be earned. When a sufficient number has attained this degree of true leadership, the imperishable democracy of the sages will become a fact in the mortal sphere.

The genuine Esoteric Associations always required that disciples prepare themselves for careers of practical service. The student was expected to attain to a state of unusual skill or proficiency in some branch of learning. He was then to practice this profession or craft as a means of extending his sphere of constructive influence. He was to teach through example, enriching his chosen vocation with the overtones of enlightened religious philosophy. Thus, gradually creating a significant zone of influence, he was available for whatever task the Keepers of the Great Plan required. Practical ends can only be achieved by practical means, and the agents of the Universal Reformation must be sufficient for every emergency.

Rather than attempt to indicate modern organizations which may or may not be instruments of the Mystery system, it is more useful to recommend that each truth seeker make use of his own faculties of discrimination. The Esoteric Orders have never accepted candidates without reasonable qualifications, nor have they offered any inducements except the privilege of becoming unselfish, useful, and humble. They have never promised to gratify the whims of mortals, and have reserved the right to select in their own way those whom they believed to have the courage, the insight, and the fortitude which the magnitude of the project demanded. Human society cannot be preserved by Fraternities of the unfit, even though the members be well-intentioned. Suc-

THE EXTERNALIZATION OF THE HIERARCHY

How Organizational in the New Age

At us now return to our consideration of the spread of expected religious ideals and the growth of the new us organisms. In the process of transmitting the old and so releasing the imprisoned life, there are two which are steadily held in view by the Guides of our ion:

First, that the general public serves or is dominated the concrete mind and is unable to grasp abstractions. It is the form which matters to them the most, for they are conservative and cling to the familiar. The urch is intended to serve the masses and is not intended to be of use (except as a field of service) to the aristocrats of the world, for they heed not the form to same extent, having contacted somewhat the inner compelling life.

Secondly, the church movement, like all else, is a temporary expedient and serves but as a transitional place for the evolving life. Eventually, there will wear the Church Universal, and its definite outlines I appear towards the close of this century. In this section, forget not the wise prophecy of H. P. B., as ching events at the close of this century. This Church I be nurtured into activity by the Christ and His ipts when the outpouring of the Christ principle, true second Coming, has been accomplished. No for the advent do I set, but the time will not be church as a teaching factor should take the great basic doctrines and (shattering the old forms in which they are expressed and held) show their true and inner spiritual significance. The prime work of the church is to teach, and each carefully, preserving the outer appearance in order to reach the many who are accustomed to church usage. Teachers must be trained: Bible knowledge must be spread; the sacraments must be mystically interpreted, and the power of the church to heal must be demonstrated.

The three main channels through which the preparation for the new age is going on might be regarded as the Church, the Masonic Fraternity and the educational field. All of them are as yet in relatively static condition, and all are as yet failing to meet the need and to respond to the inner pressure. But in all of these three movements, disciples of the Great Ones are to be found and they are steadily gathering momentum and will before long enter upon their designated task.

The Masonic Movement, when it can be divorced from politics and social ends and from its present paralyzing condition of inertia, will meet the need of those who can, and should, wield power. It is the custodian of the law; it is the home of the Mysteries and the seat of initiation. It holds in its symbolism the ritual of Deity and the way of salvation is pictorially presented in its work. The methods of Deity are demonstrated in its Temples, and under the All-seeing Eye the work can go forward. It is a far more occult organization than can be realized, and is intended to be the training school for the coming advanced occultists. In its symbolism lies hid the wielding of the forces connected with the growth and life of the kingdoms of nature and the unfoldment of the divine aspects in man. In the comprehension of its symbolism will come the power to cooperate with the divine plan. It meets the need of those who work on the first Ray of Will or Power.

The Church finds its mission in the helping of the devotee, in aiding the great public which is innately religious and of good will. It hides in its heart those who vibrate to

Presented by a representative of Elizabeth Clare Prophet

The Ascended Masters are our elder brothers and sisters who have mastered their karma and graduated from Earth's schoolroom. Their teachings are for advanced students who want to pursue a spiritual path homeward to God. Elizabeth Clare Prophet is their Messenger. She conveys their teachings by the Holy Spirit in the tradition of

Teachings focus on the spiral of life, how things connect

By DEBORAH HOLTON

The sage burned, the harvest table overflowed and the circle of people sitting in a meeting hall fell silent as the work of Weed, an herbalist, teacher and author of the newly published "Rising Wise." Having rising and honoring the wisdom of ancient ways, she travels what she describes as the path of the wise woman — a path of self-knowledge and trust that recognizes the inter-connectedness of all animals, plants and the earth.

It is most easily identified as the way of the herbalist, the midwife, and the healer from the earth-centered religions.

A NUTRITIOUS ALTERNATIVE

Hillsboro woman introduces Northwest to sweet-tasting meat

By DIANE HODGMAN
Special writer, The Oregonian

Most Americans find only frozen rabbit in their supermarkets, but Northwest isn't a dry-out state, and many fine rabbits grown in the region.

Rabbit has not always been easy to find, but Shari Thomas has developed her Classic Country Rabbit Co. in Hillsboro into a major processor and supplier.

Compared to pork, lamb, chicken, beef and turkey, rabbit meat is low in calories, fat, cholesterol and sodium (see accompanying chart). The hind legs and loins are leaner than the front portion, Thomas noted.

Because rabbit is lean and close-fibered, many traditional recipes call for braising it, often in tenderizing wine or vinegar, but the cut can determine the method of cooking.

If not braised, lean rabbit portions need to be marinated — for at least two hours or days, she said. Lean beef, she pointed out, also be marinated to induce tenderness. Thomas, her husband is a favorite trout marinating rabbit.

She said fresh rabbit is great in a substituted in any other recipe calling for beef or pork.

"We supply basically fresh rabbit, although some supermarkets freeze product before putting it on display some never melt. The fresher it is, the better," she said.

Thomas, who started raising and managing a processing plant for many years, opened Classic Country Rabbit in 1988, one other major consumer in the northwest, located in Arkansas. While Petal, whole, cut up fryer broilers, Thomas' ages of half cut up rabbits, hind legs, or scaled trotters. Classic Rabbit also markets fresh sausage (garlic, Italian) and sells ultra-free stainless steamer containers.

Thomas said frozen rabbit can be frozen for 45 days for best quality. For not happened since the days of Noah, till now. The birthday of a New World is at hand."

As stated before, God's Plan in America is a nonsectarian plan. Our Constitution is nonsectarian. Our great American Public Schools—God's chosen schools—are nonsectarian. The Great Spirit behind this great nation is nonsectarian.

Our great American Public Schools have never taken away from any child the freedom of will, freedom of spirit or freedom of mind. That is the divine reason that Great God our King has chosen the great American Public Schools to pave the way for the new race, the new religion and the new civilization that is taking place in America.

Any mother, father or guardian who is responsible for the taking away of freedom of mind, freedom of will or freedom of spirit is the lowest criminal on this earth, because they take away from that child the God-given right to become a part of God's great plan in America for the dawn of the New Age of the world.

WORSHIPFUL MASTER'S WORK

The duties of a Worshipful Master of a Lodge include a multitude of tasks. Of these, one of the most important is the mastery of the work.

We have sat in Lodge and felt a spine-tingling thrill as a competent Master has exemplified a Masonic Degree. We have been inspired to high and noble exaltations of spiritual feeling as such a man obligated a candidate.

Further, we have sensed the same feeling permeating the minds of those who sat with us. The deathlike stillness, the fixed expression and rapt attention of the listeners gave ample proof that the words of the Master served to renew the vows and to rededicate the purpose of everyone within hearing. And, most important of all, the candidate, hearing for the first time the sacred teachings of Masonry, receives an impression that time will not erase.

In contrast to this, what a travesty it is to hear Masonic work given in a dull, meaningless, slovenly manner, with no spark of inspiration and no appeal to the high emotions, no sincerity of purpose nor evidence of understanding; imperfect enunciation, meaningless repetition of words, words, words. Such work has a deadly effect upon those who sit in the Lodge. No wonder so many Masons consider Masonic work as dull, meaningless routine.

Further, such work is a fraud upon the candidate. He is entitled to something better. He has come seeking Light and, instead of a clear, direct unveiling, he receives a jumbled, monotonous interpretation which is meaningless.

True, eloquence of expression is not given to all men. But earnestness, sincerity and clear enunciation can be acquired.

The man who accepts the office of Master takes no light obligation upon himself. If he assumes this position, let him show by his work that he is a Master Craftsman. That is what his title implies.

The Master who fails to devote time and effort to acquiring proficiency, not only in correct wording but also proficiency in conveying the meaning and solemnity of the work, is recreant to the trust he has accepted.

Yes, the duties of a Worshipful Master are many and varied. And one of the most important of these is mastery of the work.—The New South Wales Freemason.

TOLERANCE

Five Baptist Evangelists were arrested, on July 22, 1950, after the meeting they were holding on the main street of La Sarre, Quebec, Canada, had been broken up by a crowd which had kicked, jostled and pelted them with eggs and garbage. They were detained in jail without bail in this predominantly Roman Catholic town, but the Town Council took a hand and dropped the public disturbance charges and assured them of police protection at their future meetings. Their detention without bail brought many protests.

Dear Mr.

Thank you for your recent inquiry; we welcome the opportunity to provide you with additional information about Triangles.

Our coworkers include tens of thousands from over 110 countries who share a love for humanity and a desire to help all people move forward towards right relations, peace and progress; who believe in the power of thought, of prayer and invocation; who accept the scientific theses that "all is energy" and "energy follows thought and conforms itself to thought".

As active participants in this daily meditation, Triangles members unite by thinking outwardly with love towards their co-workers. As they do this, they visualize the group as three radiant, vibrant points of light connected by rays of living light. They then visualize their triangle as an integral part of the planetary network of Triangles. The Great Invocation is sounded to receive and transmit divine energies for the healing of humanity and all forms of planetary life.

We hope you will be inspired to join us in this spiritual endeavor.

With sincere goodwill,

sole claim to greatness, to recognition,
is its past.

Masonry's greatness is not in the antiquity of its beginnings, neither in its conservatism, but rather in the fact that it has always been a leader of thought and action.

Its members have been the world's pioneer corps, clearing away the dense growth of ignorance, bridging the turbid waters of superstition and fanaticism, blazing ways of enlightenment whereon the mighty army of humanity might move to nobler achievements, to grander victories.

The great leaders in Masonry as well as in the secular world have been men who, though clinging tenaciously to certain great principles, were quick to see and take advantage of everything in the line of progress and development. Theirs was no blind conservatism holding fast to a dead past, but a glorious faith in the possibilities of the future, a faith, that, like the star in the East which led the Magi of old to the lowly birthplace of the Redeemer, has led mankind under the leadership of many a Moses through the wilderness of pain and travail and bitter opposition into the bright light of twentieth century civilization.

I repeat, a comprehensive understanding of the history of Masonry leads inevitably to the conclusion that not through conservatism has it most served the world, but rather through its spirit of unrest, its utter abhorrence of unnecessary restraint, its abiding love for liberty, its unconquerable desire to progress away from the old to the new and better conditions.

Wherever the conflict has been waged between the old and the new, between a narrow conservatism and real progress, our Masonic brethren have been found

We must not be content to abide in the glory of bygone days. There is need today of just such men as have made Masonry great in the past. We cannot rest on our laurels, but following in the footsteps of our sires we must make Masonry of the twentieth century as potent a factor for good as it has been in the centuries that have gone.—Ma-

Antiquity Admitted a Century Ago.

An old book published in London in the early part of the last century contains the following in regard to Freemasonry:

"This very ancient society is so called,
either from some extraordinary knowledge of Masonry, of which they are supposed to be masters, or because the first founders of this society were persons of this profession. They are now very considerable, both on account of their numbers and the rank they hold in society, being found in every country in Europe,
as well as North America; and they consist principally of persons of merit and consideration. They make no small pretensions to antiquity, for they claim a standing of some thousands of years.
What the design of their institution is,
seems still in some measure a secret.

"The members are said to be admitted into the fraternity by being put into possession of a great number of secrets, called the Mason's word, which have been religiously kept from age to age.
In a treatise on Masonry, published in 1792, by William Preston, grand master of the Lodge of Antiquity, the origin of Masonry is traced from the creation.
Ever since symmetry began, and har-

Masons are aware that Masonry has been behind revolutions and social change.

people and subject them by intellectual bondage and servitude to a foreign potentate. That "World Power" is far better organized than we are; is far more numerous than we; is richer, more shrewd, more ambitious, more aggressive, and more unscrupulous than we. It has attacked our Public Schools as being "schools without religion" and intended "to turn the people into refined Pagans." Listen to this by the Rev. Michael Muller: "The object, then, of these Godless, irreligious Public Schools is to spread among the people the worst of religions, the one religion, the religion which pleases most hardened adulterers and criminals—the religion of irrational animals. The moral character of our Public Schools in many of our cities has sunk so low, that even courtesans have disguised themselves as school-girls in order the more surely to ply their foul vocation."

Yet, in some of our larger cities, like Chicago and Boston, seventy-five per cent of the teachers of the Public Schools are members of that "World Power."

Wrapped in the seamless robe of the Savior for which it gambled at the foot of the Cross, that "World Power" comes to us in the name of Jesus, garbles and twists His teaching, and proclaims itself His sole representative on earth. Yet, when it considers itself safe, it throws aside the garb of religion and reveals its true nature as a gigantic political organization, determined to crush individual liberty and freedom of thought, and by superstition, ignorance, and fear, to bring all peoples into subjection to its tyrannic will.

Don't fool yourselves by thinking that the danger is past because as a result of the last election one of its craftiest agents has been taken out of the public service, and a 32° Mason placed in the Presidential Chair. There is danger, and it is very real and near. That "World Power" has muzzled nearly all our press. It has captured or poisoned our sources of information. It is organizing an army of Knights who are sworn to bring our Country to the knees of their Pontiff in humble obedience.

Before "Freemasonry as a World Power" there looms the inevitable struggle with this superior foe—superior in numbers, wealth and strategy.

Shall we face the coming conflict like Shakespeare's Hamlet, nerveless and bewailing—

The time is out of joint: Oh, cursed spite
That ever I was born to set it right.

Or, shall we not rather cry, like the English poet, Rupert Brooke, who sailed from Gallipoli to the front and gave up his life for liberty, in the late war:

"Now, God be thanked who hath matched us with this hour!"

We need to face the future with intelligent fortitude, calm faith and resolute wills. Let not the odds against us daunt us. Let us catch the inspiration of that magnificent exclamation of the heroic Fichte:

I raise my head to the threatening rock, the raging flood, and the fiery tempest, and cry, "I am Eternal and defy your might; break all upon me, and thou Earth and thou Heaven, mingle in the wild tumult; and all ye elements foam and fret yourselves, and crush in your conflict the last atom of the body I call mine, my Will, secure in its own firm purpose, shall soar unwavering and hold over the wreck of the universe!"

Then "Freemasonry as a World Power" will stand revealed as conquered and unconquerable.

Most base is he who, 'neath the shade
Of Freedom's ensign plies Corruption's trade.

—T. Moore.

In 1921 Masons saw the world as a struggle between two world powers—
Masonry and the Vatican

THE GAME OF CONSPIRACY

This is the cover of a game created by people with connections to the Illuminati! like Rob. Shea. The game is being sold in U.S. stores. Cute! The object of the Illuminati's game (about themselves) is to take over the world. Boy, what a way to get everyone thinking, "If I were in their shoes I'd take over the world too." On the following pwsltr. page various playing cards of the game indicate what groups the Illuminati must capture during the game.

CHURCH OF SATAN
Post Office Box 7633
San Francisco, California 94120

Anton S. LaVey
High Priest

AKA: Satanists

HISTORICAL ROOTS: The Church of Satan is an eclectic body that traces its origin to many sources - classical voodoo, the Hell-Fire Club of eighteenth-century England, the ritual magic of Aleister Crowley, and the Black Order of Germany in the 1920s and 1930s. It departs from its predecessors by (1) its organization into a church, and (2) the openness of its magical endeavors.

CURRENT WORLD LEADER: Anton Szandor LaVey, High Priest.

ORIGINS IN THE U.S.: The Church of Satan was formed on Walpurgisnacht, April 30, 1966, in San Francisco, California, when Anton LaVey proclaimed the beginning of the Satanic Era. Initial growth came from coverage in the mass media. Articles included coverage of LaVey holding a funeral for a member of the U.S. Navy killed in San Francisco.

NUMBER OF ADHERENTS IN THE U.S.: Between 10,000 and 20,000.

ORGANIZATIONAL STRUCTURE: The Church of Satan is focused in the Central Grotto in San Francisco. It accepts or rejects all potential members and charters other grottos (congregations) around the country. Isolated individuals relate directly to the Central Grotto. Power to regulate members is in the hands of the Head of the Church.

LEADERSHIP AND ROLE OF PRIESTS: The Priesthood of the Church of Satan is not comprised of individuals who are necessarily adept in the performance of rituals, though pastoral and organizational abilities are not minimized. The rank of Priest is conferred on those who have achieved

"And upon her head was written, MYSTERY BABYLON THE GREAT, THE MOTHER OF HARLOTS AND ABOMINATIONS OF THE EARTH." REV 17:5

"Babylon the great is fallen, is fallen and is become the habitation of devils, and the hold of every foul spirit...For all nations have drunk of the wine of the wrath of her fornication, and the kings of the earth have committed fornication with her, and the merchants of the earth are waxed rich through the abundance of her delicacies...her sins have reached unto heaven...for no man buyeth their merchandise anymore...precious wood...ointments...slaves, and the souls of men. Rejoice over her,...prophets; for God hath avenged you on her. And the light of a candle shall shine no more at all in thee...for by thy sorceries were all nations deceived. And in her was found the blood of prophets, and of saints, and of ALL that were slain upon the earth." REV 18

These verses speak about the Babylonian Mystery Religion system which is the marriage of religion and political power. Note that ALL the blood of the slain prophets was found in her, and the Catholic Church was not even in existence when most prophets were slain.

Probably, the photo outline was more an inadvertent error than a deliberate joke. The Journal's informant had written at the end of his list of Indian tribes participating in the Prayer this potential comment: "also two Sycamores, 'White Bark'."

Not understanding the reference, we chose to delete the words "White Bark" and did not check with our informant for an explanation. Perhaps our source thought we knew the term. Perhaps we were entangled, as Bro.: McKenney suspects, in any case, if this incident brought or brings a smile to anyone of whiterer complexion, enjoy.

Knight Templar Holy Land Pilgrimage

Just a note to thank you for publishing Grand Master Blair Cherry Mayfield's article (Dec. 1995) about the Knight Templar Holy Land Pilgrimage, including the front cover photo of the Church of the Holy Sepulchre and the testimonials of the Reverend and Brother Robert A. Vowell, 33°, as well as other pilgrims. I have heard several returning ministers give a presentation on their experiences, and their vitality and enthusiasm are remarkable. This program not only fulfills the Templar commitment to support and defend the faith, but also informs non-Masonic ministers in our communities about Freemasonry's past and present.

Ten Cents A Member For America's Veterans

Mr. Klinkenbeck, I read your recent "Green Envelope" appeal for support of the Hospital Visitation Program sponsored by the Masonic Service Association (MSA). The appeal noted that back in the days of World War II, Most Worshipful Brother and President Harry S. Truman, 33°, Past Grand Master, Grand Lodge of Missouri, also made a similar national appeal. He hoped every Mason would donate 10 cents. That goal was never achieved. If the MSA were fortunate enough to receive ten cents per Mason today, it could expand its Hospital Visitation Program to include all 173 V.A. Medical Centers and all State Veterans Homes.

On behalf of my husband, George F. Cozart, Sr., 32°, Scottish Rite Valley of Albuquerque, who will complete his year as Master this month [December 1995], and his Lodge, Hiram No. 13 AF&M, Albuquerque, New Mexico, I am enclosing a check to pay the 10 cents for all 265 members, as of this date, of Hiram Lodge. I wish that this small gesture would be an incentive for all Lodges throughout the world.

Lodges and Brethren who wish to follow Mrs. Cozart's generous example should send donations made out to MSA's Hospital Visitation Program, Inc. The Masonic Service Association, 8120 Fenton Street, Silver Spring, MD 20910-6785. A hearty "Thank you!" from all of America's hospitalized veterans!

Under The DOUBLE EAGLE

The Southern Jurisdiction's double-headed eagle logo is just one variation of this powerful image which dates back to 3,000 B.C.

Much has been written about the double-headed eagle, but when asked specific questions, answers are short and, in my experience, not very accurate. In this article, I propose to address three topics: a brief history of the double-headed eagle, wings up and down, and some personal speculations and observations.

As stated in Coil's Masonic Encyclopedia and concurred in by Mackey's Encyclopedia of Freemasonry, the double-headed eagle symbol first appeared about 3,000 B.C. in the brick-work of Lagash, a city in Sumer in southern Babylonia, between the Tigris and Euphrates Rivers and near the modern city of Shattra in Iraq. Lagash was an ancient center of art, literature, military, and political power.

Subsequently, the symbol was used by many tribal and national groups, and in 102 B.C., Marius, the Roman Consul, decreed it as the symbol of imperial Rome. Later, the Emperors of the Holy Roman Empire used the double-headed eagle to symbolize the universality and unity of the empire. Charlemagne, for instance, as reported in an article from the New Age (Scottish Rite Journal) of February 1907, employed the double-headed eagle as early as 802 A.D. The Holy Roman Empire, generally, had the double-headed eagle on its seals by 1414 A.D. According to Dr. Albert Meyer, 33°, in an article from the New Age (Scottish Rite Journal) of

FOREWORD

THE VERY REV. THE CHIEF RABBI

DR J. H. HERTZ

The Talmud is the product of Palestine, the land of the Bible, and of Mesopotamia, the cradle of civilisation. The beginnings of Talmudic literature date back to the time of the Babylonian Exile in the sixth pre-Christian century, before the Roman Republic had yet come into existence. When, a thousand years later, the Babylonian Talmud assumed final codified form in the year 500 after the Christian era, the Western Roman Empire had ceased to be. That millennium opens with the downfall of Babylon as a world-power; it covers the rise, decline and fall of Persia, Greece and Rome; and it witnesses the spread of Christianity and the disappearance of Paganism in Western and Near Eastern lands.

— Settling in —

'The Babylonian Exile is a momentous period in the history of humanity—and especially so in that of Israel. During that Exile, Israel found itself. It not only rediscovered the Torah and made it the rule of life, but under its influence new religious institutions, such as the synagogue, i.e., congregational worship without priest or ritual, came into existence—one of the most far-reaching spiritual achievements in the whole history of Religion. At the re-establishment of the Jewish Commonwealth, Ezra the Sofar, or Scribe, in the year 444 B.C.E. formally proclaimed the Torah the civil and religious law of the new Commonwealth. He brought with him all the oral traditions that were taught in the Exile, and he dealt with the new issues that confronted the struggling community in that same spirit which had created the synagogue. His successors, called after him Sofarim ('Scribes'), otherwise known as the 'Men of the Great Assembly', continued his work. Their teachings and ordinances received the sanction of popular practice, and came to be looked upon as halachah, literally, 'the trodden path', the clear religious guidance to the Israelite in the way he should go. When the Men of the Great Assembly were no more, the Sanhedrin of Jerusalem took their place. The delight of all those generations was in the Law of the Lord, and in His Law did they meditate day and night. When their exposition followed the verses of Scripture, it was called Midrash, and when such exposition followed the various precepts, it was known as Mishnah. Academies arose for systematic cultivation of this New Learning, as well as for the assiduous gathering of the oral traditions current from times immemorial concerning the proper observance of the commandments of the Torah. This movement for the intensive study of Scripture did not pass unchallenged. The aristocratic and official element of the population—later known as the Sadducees—unhesitatingly declared every law that was not specifically written in the Torah to be a dangerous and reprehensible innovation. The opposition of the Sadducees only gave an additional impetus to the spread of the Oral Law by the Scribes, later known as the Pharisees. What they sought was the full and inexhaustible revelation which God had made. The knowledge of the contents of that revelation, they held, was to be found in the first instance in the Written Text of the Pentateuch; but the revelation, the real Torah, was the meaning of that Written Text, the Divine thought therein disclosed, as unfolded in ever greater richness of detail by successive generations of devoted teachers. 'Apart from the direct intercourse of prayer,' says Herford, 'the study of Torah was the way of closest approach to God; it might be called the Pharisaic form of the Beatific Vision. To study Torah was to think God's thoughts after Him, as Kepler said.'

The product of the feverish activity of the Pharisaic schools threatened to become too unwieldy to be retained by unassisted memory. For all this teaching was oral, and was not to be written down. The first effort at arrangement of the traditional material into a system, was made in the first pre-Christian century by

When we come to the Babylonian Gemara, we are dealing with what most people understand when they speak or write of the Talmud. Its birthplace, Babylonia, was an autonomous Jewish centre for a longer period than any other land; namely, from soon after 586 before the Christian era to the year 1040, after the Christian era—1626 years; from the days of Cyrus down to the age of the Mongol conquerors!

For a long time it was held that the language in which the Babylonian Talmud was written defied grammatical formulation. This is now seen to be nothing but prejudice. Eminent grammarians have discovered its laws, and have determined its place in the scheme of Semitic languages. Its philological side was treated nearly a thousand years ago in the Talmudic Lexicon (Aruch) of Asher ben Jehiel, and has been completed by the labours of Levy, Kohut and Jastrow in the last century. The style of the Babylonian Talmud is mostly one of pregnant brevity and succinctness. It is at no time 'easy reading'. Elliptical expression is a constantly recurring feature, and whole sentences are often indicated by a single word. In the discussions, question and answer are closely interwoven, and there is an entire absence of demarcation between them. Hard thinking and closest attention are required under the personal guidance of an experienced scholar, or of an elaborate written exposition of the argument, for the discussion to be followed, or the context understood. And that understanding cannot be gained by the aid of Grammar or Lexicon alone. Even a student who has a fair knowledge of Hebrew and Aramaic, but has not been initiated into the Talmud by Traditional Jewish guides, will find it impossible to decipher a page! A great philologist who was also a Talmudist has rightly declared: 'Suppose the teaching of the Talmud suddenly interrupted during the life of a generation; the

P O R E W O R D

This is not the place to speak of the influence of the Talmud; how throughout the centuries of persecution and darkness, it saved Israel from intellectual and moral degradation. My purpose is merely to give a brief presentation of the Talmud as a book. I shall therefore conclude with the words of I. Abrahams, 'The Talmud,' he says, 'is one of the great books of the world. Rabbinism was a sequel to the Bible; and if, like all sequels, it was unequal to its original, it nevertheless shares its greatness. The works of all Jews up to the modern period were the sequel to this sequel. Through them all may be detected the unifying principle that literature in its truest sense includes life itself; that intellect is the handmaid to conscience; and that the best books are those which best teach men how to live. The maxim, Righteousness delivers from death, applies to books as well as to men. A literature whose consistent theme is Righteousness, is immortal.'

A reliable English translation of the whole Babylonian Talmud has long been looked forward to by scholars. This expectation is beginning to be realised by the publication of the Soncino edition of the Order Nezikin.

The translation is based on the Text of the Vilna Talmud, corrected where necessary in the light of variants from MSS. and other printed editions. All the censored passages reappear in the Text or in the Notes. The Notes bring the essence of the classical interpretations, clarify the argument, explain technical expressions, and show in what sense the Biblical verses quoted are to be understood. Wherever possible, place-names are identified, historical and archaeological allusions elucidated, and their parallels in the life of contemporary nations traced.

This notable achievement is due to the quite extraordinary erudition of the Editor, Rabbi Dr I. Epstein, assisted by his staff of scholarly translators. The Editor's Prefatory Note gives some indication of his colossal task. Aside from planning the scope and character of the work, the Editor fixed the Text, controlled the

Letters create world Pharisees & Merkabah

"Bezalel knew how to combine [אָרַב] the letters by which heaven and earth were created" (Ber. 55a), and the saying of R. Judah b. Thi (Men. 29b), quoted, with similar sayings of R. b. in Bacher, "Ag. Bab. Amor." pp. 18, 19—is here proved to be an old cabalistic conception. In fact, the belief in the magic power of the letters of the Tetragrammaton and other names of the Deity (compare Enoch, Enoch. relig.; Prayer of Manasse; Kid. 71a; Eccl. R. iii. 11; Yer. Hag. ii. 77c) seems to have originated in Chaldea (see LeNormant, "Chaldean Magic," pp. 29, 49). Whatever, then, the theurgic Cabala was, which, under the name of "Sefer (or "Milkot" Magik), induced Babylonian rabbis of the fourth century to "create a calf by magic" (Sanh. 65b, 67b; Zunz, "G. V." 2d ed., p. 174, by a false rationalism ignores or fails to account for a simple though strange fact!), an ancient tradition seems to have coupled the name of this theurgic "Sefer Yezirah" with the name of Abraham as one accredited with the possession of esoteric wisdom and theurgic powers (see ABRAHAM, APOCALYPSE OF, and ANTI-ABRAHAM. TESTAMENT OF; Beer, "Das Leben Abrahams," pp. 207 et seq.; and especially Testament of Abraham, Recension B, vi., xviii.; compare Kohler, in "Jew. Quart. Rev." vii. 584, note). As stated by Jellinek ("Beiträge zur Kabbalah," i. 3), the very fact that Abraham, and not a Talmudical hero like Akiba, is introduced in the "Sefer Yezirah," at the close, as possessor of the Wisdom of the Alphabet, indicates an old tradition, if not the antiquity of the book itself.

The "wonders of the Creative Wisdom" can also be traced from the "Sefer Yezirah," back to Ben Sira, i.e.: Enoch, xlii. 1, xlvi. 1, lxxii. 2, xcii. 1; Slavonic Enoch, xxx. 8, xxxiii. 3 (see Charles's note for further parallels); IV Esdras xiv. 46; Sojah xv. 3; and the Merkabah-travels to Test. Abraham, x.; Test. Job, xi. (see Kohler, in Kohut Memorial Volume, pp. 282-288); and the Baruch Apocalypse throughout, and even II Macc. vii. 22, 28, betray cabalistic traditions and terminologies.

But especially does Gnosticism testify to the antiquity of the Cabala. Of Chaldean origin, as suggested by Kessler (see "Mandaeans," in Herzog-Hauck, "Real-Encyc.") and definitively shown by Anz ("Die Frage nach dem Ursprung des Gnostizismus," 1879), Gnosticism was Jewish in character long before it became Christian (see Joel, "Blicke in die Religionsgeschichte," etc., 1880, i. 203; Hönl, "Die Ophiten," 1889; Friedländer, "Der Vorchristliche Jüdische Gnostizismus," 1898; idem, "Der Antichrist," 1901). Gnosticism—that is, the cabalistic "Hokmah" (wisdom), translated into "Madda" (Aramaic, "Manda" = knowledge of things divine)—seems to have been the first attempt on the part of the Jewish sages to give the empirical mystic lore, with the help of Platonic and Pythagorean or Stoic ideas, a speculative turn: hence the danger of heresy from which Akiba and Ben Zoma strove to extricate themselves, and of which the systems of Philo, an adept in Cabala (see "De Cherubim," 14; "De Sacrificiis Abelis et Caini," 15; "De Eo Quod Deterius Potiori Insidiatur," 48; "Quis Rerum Divinarum Heres Sit," 22), and of Paul (see Matter, "History of Gnosticism," ii.), show many pitfalls (see Gnosticism, MINIM). It was the ancient Cabala which, while allegorizing the Song of Songs, spoke of ADAM KADMON, or the God-man, of the "BUTTE of God," and hence of "the mystery of the union of powers" in God (see Conybeare, "Philo's Contemplative Life," p. 304), before Philo, Paul, the Christian Gnostics, and the medieval Cabala did. Speculative Cabala of old (IV Esd. iii. 21; Wisdom ii. 24) spoke of "the germ of poison from the serpent transmitted from Adam to all generations" (הַמְּחַיָּה יֵלֶךְ) before Paul and R. Johanan (Ab. Zarah 22b) referred to it. And while the Gnostic classification of souls into pneumatic, psychic, and hylic ones can be traced back to Plato (see Joel, i.e. p. 132), Paul was not the first (or only one) to adopt it in his system (see Hag. 14b; Cant. R. i. 3, quoted by Joel; compare Gen. R. xiv., where the five names for the soul are dwelt upon).

The whole dualistic system of good and of evil powers, which goes back to Zoroastrianism and ultimately to old Chaldaea, can be traced through Gnosticism; having influenced the cosmology of the ancient Cabala before it reached the medieval one. So is the conception, underlying the cabalistic tree, of the right side being the source of light and purity, and the left the source of darkness and impurity ("sitra yemina we sitra aharma"), found among the Gnostics (see Irenaeus, "Adversus Haereses," i. 5, § 1; ii. 2, § 2; ii. 24, § 6; Epiphanius, "Haereses," xxviii. 1, 2; "Clementine Homilies," vii. 3; compare Cant. R. i. 9; Matt. xxv. 33; Plutarch, "De Iside," 48; Anz, i.e. 111). The fact also that the "Kelippot" (the scalings of impurity), which are so prominent in the medieval Cabala, are found in the old Babylonian incantations (see Sayce, "The Sumerian Lectures," 1887, p. 472; Delitzsch, "Assyrisches Wörterbuch," s. v. קֶלֶפֶת), is evidence in favor of the antiquity of most of the cabalistic material.

It stands to reason that the secrets of the theurgic Cabala are not lightly divulged; and yet the Testament of Solomon recently brought to light the whole system of conjuration of angels and demons, by which the evil spirits were exorcised: even the magic sign or seal of King Solomon, known to the medieval Jew as the SHIELD OF DAVID, has been resurrected (see Conybeare, in "Jew. Quart. Rev." xi. 1-45; also EXORCISM).

To the same class belongs the "Sefer Refu'ot" (The Book of Healing), containing the prescriptions against all the diseases inflicted by demons, which Noah wrote according to the instructions given by the angel Raphael and handed over to his son Shem (Book of Jubilees, x. 1-14; Jellinek, "B. H." iii. 155-160; Introduction, p. xxx.). It was identified with the "Sefer Refu'ot" in possession of King Solomon and hidden afterward by King Hezekiah (see Pes. iv. 9, 56a; "B. H." i.e. p. 160; Josephus, "Ant." viii. 2, § 5; compare idem, "B. J." ii. 8, § 6, and the extensive literature in Seftirer, "Gesch. des Volkes Israel," 3d ed., iii. 2, 99 et seq.), whereas the secret of the black art, or of healing by demonic powers, was transmitted to heathen tribes, to "the sons of Keturah" (Sanh. 91a) or the AMORITES (compare Enoch, x. 7).

MISHNAH. THERE IS GREATER STRINGENCY IN RESPECT TO THE TEACHINGS OF THE SCRIBES THAN IN RESPECT TO THE TORAH. [THUS,] IF ONE [A REBELLIOUS ELDER] SAYS, THERE IS NO PRECEPT OF TEFILLIN, SO THAT A BIBLICAL LAW MAY BE TRANSGRESSED, HE IS EXEMPT.<sup>4</sup> [BUT IF HE RULES THAT THE TEFILLIN MUST CONTAIN] FIVE COMPARTMENTS, THUS ADDING TO THE WORDS OF THE SCRIBES, HE IS LIABLE.

GEMARA. R. Eleazar said in R. Oshaia's name: He is liable only for a matter of which the fundamental law is Biblical, whilst its interpretation is of the Scribes, and in which there is room for addition, which addition, however, is the equivalent of subtraction. Now, the only precept [fulfilling these conditions] is that of tefillin.<sup>6</sup> Now, this statement was made according to R. Judah.<sup>7</sup> But is there not the lulab,<sup>8</sup> the fundamental law of which is Biblical,<sup>9</sup>

(3) ~~If he acted as an inciter to idolatry~~, but maintained that his words did not purport thus, and the Great Beth din ruled that they did, it is shewn that he was liable to death even before, and without a warning, which is unnecessary for a ~~mesith~~. (4) Since all know that the Bible commands the wearing of tefillin, the words of the elder will be ineffective. (5) Who required only four in the head-tefillin. (6) The fundamental law of wearing tefillin is Biblical. By Rabbinic interpretation, the head-tefillin must contain four compartments, with inscriptions in each. Hence it is possible to rule that it should consist of a greater number. But if this is done, the tefillin is unfit, so that the addition amounts to subtraction of its fitness. # The chosen and the choice

SHABBAT SHALOM / Shlomo Riskin

"And Moses came and told the people all the words of God, and all the judgments. And all the people answered with one voice, and said: 'All the words which God has said will we do.'"

(Ex. 24:2-4)

ARE we special because we are Jews or are we Jews because we are special? What is the source of our chosenness? Is it a unique Jewish gene, or is it rather the result of our acceptance of a moral and ethical doctrine called the Torah?

If the latter, then chosenness has nothing to do with race and everything to do with lifestyle.

According to Maimonides, birth alone doesn't guarantee uniqueness. Hence, when classical Judaism speaks of the chosenness of Israel to God, this concept applies not to a characteristic of race, but rather to the fact that we are the nation which lives an ethical and moral lifestyle mandated by the Torah.

Countering Maimonides, the great medieval sage Rabbi Yehuda Halevy claims that simply being born Jewish is in itself a sefula, a sign of privilege and uniqueness. Rabbi Yehuda Halevy divides the world into four realms, from the inanimate to the world of vegetation, and from vegetation to living creatures, and from creatures to human beings. But above everything, God created the Jewish people. His own nation charged with a certain mission on earth; therefore each person born a Jew is endowed with a special inyan Elohi, a Godly element. God doesn't make their distinctiveness dependent on religious observance.

The differences between Maimonides and Rabbi Yehuda Halevy carry through on such basic issues as the ultimate efficacy of conversion and the ability to prophesy. According to Maimonides, a gentile who converts becomes a Jew in every sense of the word; after all, the Book of Ruth comes to teach that a sincere Moabite convert can become the forerunner of the Messiah.

But Rabbi Yehuda Halevy would emphasize certain limitations placed upon converts, and insist that real prophecy is the sole legacy of Israel.

This week's portion of Mishpatim seems to support Maimonides. The end of Mishpatim records what has to be the central covenant of the Jewish people as a nation. The entire portion is devoted to commandments – the vast majority criminal and civil law, but even certain ritual laws are mentioned.

The Torah records how Moses writes down all of God's words, then builds an altar where burnt-offerings are sacrificed. Moses then takes the book of the covenant, reads it to the people, and the people respond: "All that God has spoken, we will do and obey." This is the covenant, a turning point in Jewish history.

BUT THE fact that this covenant appears at the end of Mishpatim forces us to ask why it wasn't handed down with the giving of the Ten Commandments, when the majesty of Mt. Sinai was still palpable.

Interestingly enough, for Maimonides the belated introduction of the covenant poses no problem because he holds that what makes the Jewish people unique is the commandments – especially those between human beings. If we keep them, therein lies our uniqueness. Therefore the covenant is made only after a goodly portion of the commandments are presented. Moreover, Mishpatim serves as the basis for much of the Oral Law.

After Moses reads all the words that God has told him, the Jewish nation has something substantial to say yes to. Our unique covenant with God is dependent upon adherence to His commandments.

This support for the Maimonidean position is reflected by the Midrash, wherein God approaches the nations of the world, offering each one the Torah. Only after they refuse, and the Israelites cry out unconditionally "We shall do and we shall obey," does God make His covenant with us – a covenant based upon our acceptance of His laws! One of the Sages of the Talmud goes so far as to say that we are the most impudent of nations, so we require the Torah to soften our personality.

Rabbi Abraham Isaac Hakohen Kook, the former chief rabbi of Israel, seems to agree with Rabbi Yehuda Halevy, but in reality has a most cogent and meditative position. In a letter written in 1927, he sheds light on the question of the uniqueness of the Jew by distinguishing between the Jewish people as a whole (Knesset Yisrael) and the Jew as an individual. Citing a Talmudic passage, "A gentile who occupies himself with Torah is as great as the high priest," (Bava Kama 38a) he develops the idea that all are equal – Jew, convert, Gentile – in their ability to achieve perfection.

But the Bible does guarantee – and this is its only promise – that the Israelite nation will never disappear from the family of nations, bearing the banner of Torah and commandments, leading the way toward world peace and redemption.

also be concerned about its own place in Egyptian society. Should a business elite emerge thanks to strong trade with Israel, it could compete with the intellectuals for influence and argue for a more open regional approach.

This could happen only if there are meaningful Israeli-Egyptian economic ties, and not just talk about economic links, as is mostly the case today.

Such ties could give Egypt more confidence when dealing with an Israel whose gross national product is equal to all its Arab neighbors combined, while inter-Arab trade is only 10% of total Arab trade.

ALLY

Apart from economics, there needs to be stronger societal links between Egypt and Israel. Egypt's intelligentsia, which has never visited Israel, tends to be woefully ignorant about the country.

Sources say members of the Egyptian intelligentsia at conferences always speak about a map hanging in the Knesset, delineating Israel's borders from the Nile to the Euphrates.

Not all the news is bad. The Egyptian government, which seems to exhibit a tough line party to soothe Islamic domestic critics, has said that enough is enough. Officials say the government believes its intelligentsia must be more educated about Israel, regardless of its views.

The government has recently put out publications on Israeli culture. Egyptian playwright El Salem visited several months ago wrote a book called Visit to Israel and a publication run of 35,000 sold out in days. It should be pointed out that Egyptian tourism to Israel is running at about 1,000 a month, a leap from the pre-Oslo period when one could fit the number of Egyptian tourists coming to Israel each month into a single phone book.

ILLUMINATI CONTROL OF HEALTH CARE

PATIENTS & PUBLIC

RESOURCES

Financial assistance in the medical, Medicare programs is strictly limited. Insurance companies all controlled by the elite refuse to give payments for alternative medical practices. Standards imposed from several directions prevent charity groups from helping the needy public financially with alternative medical approaches. The lack of financing limits what alternative medical practitioners can make available to the public due to limited financing.

KNOWLEDGE/TRAINING

Of the 125 U.S. medical schools only 30 have a required course in nutrition, and the average U.S. physician receives only 2.5 hours of training in nutrition in his 4 yrs. Textbooks are heavily censored, and computer medical databases (Index Medicus and Medline) which med students use are controlled and edited to be politically correct & only contain 10% of the world's biomedical literature. Biomedical literature is financed by the pharmaceutical advertising, which accounts for over 40% of income of major journals such as the AMA Journal JAMA's income. In short, in training to be a doctor alternative medical research, successes, and methods are almost never seen by those becoming doctors. Almost a total censorship of data is quietly maintained. Professional pride also prevents many doctors from learning that they have been wrong. Med schools dare not offend Illuminati benefactors.

LEGAL SYSTEM

SECRET ENFORCEMENT GROUPS
medical STRIKE FORCE, CCHI, NCHF

When legislation to create a strike force failed to pass, a secret strike force to destroy alternative medicine was created. This strike force used leaking of disinformation as one method to destroy alternative medicines. Money was paid to create faulty databases so that alternative doctors who used it could be caught using bogus information. It seems that even illegal tactics are not beyond this strike force.

REGULATORY GROUPS
FDA, NIH, WHO

AVAILABLE CARE

Hospitals are tightly administered. The grants hospitals receive and government controls, etc. forbid the hospitals from using alternative medical practices. The control of what doctors can practice and where businesses can locate and other factors make it difficult for anyone to offer alternative care. Alternative care givers are often driven out of business, or sent to jail with kangaroo courts, thus limiting severely any available alternative care. Without alternative care available people naturally go to what is available.

KNOWLEDGE

The public learns about treatments from the television and the newspapers. These mass media are carefully guarded from alternative medicine by challenging alternative medicine's valid claims with false info so that promotion of valid cures is impossible. The politically correct doctors are given good publicity—the others are slandered. Establishment publishers are extremely biased in what is allowed printed. Research that the public hears about is all financed by the establishment, so the public gets a distortion on what type of care is viable & is important.

LICENSING & CERTIF. REQUIREMENTS
BY ACAM

State medical boards spend about 50% of their efforts confronting, rehabilitating, or removing the licenses of unapproved doctors. Some of these are actually incompetent doctors. Doctors practicing alternative medical practices or even suggesting to patients alternatives outside of the system are ruthlessly destroyed. The other 40% of medical board energy goes directly to "doctor hunting" to destroy any doctor not tooting the politically correct view of health care. The preservation of the monopolies of the drug companies are one of the items the state medical boards protect.

AVAILABLE RESOURCES

Drug companies offer free samples and financial incentives to doctors to prescribe their medicine. Drug companies take an active role in the training of doctors and financing their educations. Doctors use the equipment that is available at hospitals, and use the establishment medical journals. Doctors only get grants for research in approved areas. Research in alternative medicine is often scandalously prevented from reaching the doctors.

LEGAL POWER OF GROUPS
LIKE AMA

Dr. Fishbein, head of the AMA is totally unscrupulous. He works for the drug industry and has "sided" the FDA on opponents. The AMA secretly created the CCHI which then secretly created the NCHF. The AMA also secretly created the Committee on Quackery. These groups, partially if not entirely funded by the AMA, worked full time to destroy alternative medicines. When they recently were discovered they have gone underground in some other form. The illegalities of the AMA have been so blatant even the FTC ruled that the AMA had violated monopoly laws in their attempts to eliminate the Chiropractic profession.

Frank Vanderlip Missing from Among Large Interests in National City.

Publication yesterday of lists of stockholders in some of New York City's largest banks aroused considerable interest in the financial district, as much because of the absences of expected names as of the amounts of the principal holdings. The date at which the lists were compiled was not made known, and important changes may have taken place since, although as a rule there is little activity in bank shares and the controlling interests in most institutions have been in the same hands for many years.

Among the surprises in the lists, as published by Dow, Jones & Co., was the discovery that Hetty Green, often spoken of as a very important factor in the conduct of the Chemical National, owns only 31 of the 30,000 shares of that institution. Frank Vanderlip, President of the National City Bank, is not down among the principal shareholders, while James Stillman, Chairman of the Board of Directors, holds 47,498 shares of the total of 250,000. Mr. Stillman is also a large holder in the Hanover and the Citizens' Central. J. P. Morgan & Co. have the biggest holdings of any firm.

The shareholders, capitalization, number of shares, dividends, and book value, follow:

MANY OF THE VERY TOP LEADERS ARE MASONS: It has been popular for the Archbishop of Canterbury to be a Mason. The following are some of the Masons who have led the Anglican/Episcopal hierarchy:

IN ENGLAND Dr. Geoffrey F. Fisher, Archbishop of Canterbury beginning in 1945. He was initiated into Masonry in 1916 and before he became the Archbishop and Primate, while only an Anglican Bishop. He became the Grand Chaplain of the Grand Lodge of England in 1937 and 1939. William Howley, Archbishop of Canterbury (1828-1848) and important Mason. Henry Chicheley, another Archbishop of Canterbury and important Mason.
IN CANADA Samuel Pritchard Matheson (1852-1942) Bishop and primate of all Canadian Anglican Churches from 1909 to 1930, initiated into Masonry in 1874.
D.T. Owen (1878-1947), 33°, Primate of the Church of England in Canada, and Archbishop of Toronto.

For several years, a Masonic lodge and this church were housed in the same building north of Birmingham, Alabama. The shared sign suggests they are one and the same. Notice the Masonic symbols above the sign.

Gaylord A. Freeman Jr., 81, Dies; Led Chicago's First National Bank

By GLENN FOWLER

Gaylord A. Freeman Jr., the former chairman and chief executive of the First National Bank of Chicago and an influential spokesman for business on national and international monetary affairs, died yesterday at Northwestern Memorial Hospital in Chicago. He was 81 years old and lived in Wayne, Ill., and Lincoln, N.M.

He died of complications after vascular surgery, said Ben W. Heineman, who had been a colleague of Mr. Freeman at First Chicago.

Mr. Freeman, who spent his entire career with the First National Bank and its parent, First Chicago Corporation, was frequently called on by Washington for advice and assistance. In 1976 and 1977 he headed a commission appointed by Congress that charted the future of the United States Postal Service.

He became chairman of First National Bank in 1969, three decades after he joined the bank as a lawyer. He retired in 1975 but remained active in business affairs, speaking for the Mid-

Law School. In World War II he was vice chairman of the Army Air Force's Chicago area price adjustment section.

Over the years Mr. Freeman served on Presidential commissions on matters of housing, health, manpower, international trade, investment policy, productivity and the quality of life. In 1957 he was appointed an assistant to the Secretary of the Treasury and for two decades after that he served on various Treasury committees.

In Illinois he was chairman of the Governor's special group on cost control from 1977 to 1981. He was a director of many corporations, including Atlantic Richfield, Northwest Industries and Bankers Life and Casualty.

He was a life trustee of Northwestern University, a director of the MacArthur Foundation, a trustee of the Aspen Institute of Humanistic Studies and a governor of the United Nations Association.

Mr. Freeman maintained a 26,000-acre ranch in southern New Mexico where he raised cattle.

The Multiple Personality

Meet Tony, a 58-year-old carpenter, with at least thirty different personalities. Many of these personalities see and experience things which the others don't know anything about. Because of this, Tony, in common with other "multiples" throughout the world, suffers from frequent memory lapses. "I have no memory. If the different selves don't tell me 'we did this' or 'we did that,' I am lost. I have no recollection of what happened." On one occasion, Tony attended a wedding or, to be more correct about it, one of Tony's other personalities attended, the one he calls "the imposter." "I had no memory of it. The imposter took over, blanked me out the whole night. And there I was a couple of days later going around asking people, 'Did you see me there?'"

In an effort to understand his multiple selves, Tony traveled to the National Institute of Mental Health to be tested by psychiatrist Frank Putnam. By measuring Tony's evoked potentials (the brain's electrical response to a series of repeated sounds or light flashes), Tony was discovered to be harboring three totally unique personalities, each with its own distinct evoked potential. "These differences in the evoked potentials among three or more different personalities in Tony suggest that there may, in fact, be some real bodily changes that occur when the alternative personalities take over and are out. It suggests, too, that we are seeing a psychological condition that also affects the body," says Frank Putnam. Dr. Putnam has confirmed his evoked potential findings by testing other people with multiple personalities. As a group they exhibit differences in evoked potentials according to which personality is dominant at the moment.

People who pretend to have multiple personalities do not exhibit the kinds of differences seen in these P100 scans of Peter (multiple patient) and Tony.

"As a practical matter, we really don't need immigration anymore," said Dan Stein, executive director of the Federation for American Immigration Reform. "After all, this isn't 1810. We're not trying to fill up a wilderness."

While lawmakers are unlikely to satisfy groups such as the federation, which wants an immigration moratorium, they are charting a course that seemed unthinkable before California overwhelmingly approved Proposition 187 last fall. That measure, which is under attack in the courts, denies most public benefits to illegal immigrants in that state.

The House bill is nothing short of a watershed in the manner in which America controls its borders. It would:

- Cap the number of immigrants sponsored by their U.S. relatives to 330,000 a year. There would be no limits for spouses and minor children of U.S. citizens. In 1994, about 462,000 immigrants, including adult children and brothers and sisters of U.S. citizens, came to the United States after being sponsored by their relatives already in the country.

The change would probably fall hardest on Asians, who represent a disproportionate share of adults seeking U.S. residence. Of the 1.6 million people seeking entry under the category of adult siblings of U.S. citizens, 1 million are Asians.

- Establish a system for employers to verify the work eligibility for all job applicants by telephone. A pilot program in at least five states, including California, would be completed by 1999. After that, Congress could expand the system nationwide — a move critics decry as the first step toward a national identification card.

- Call for the construction of three parallel fences for 14 miles along the U.S.-Mexico border in San Diego County. The Clinton administration has said that plan — labeled "nutso" by Democrats — would cost as much as $110 million.

- Tighten the rules by which foreigners gain political asylum and limit to 50,000 the number of refugees admitted yearly. That's a cut of about 50 percent.

The bill also would prohibit the entry of foreigners with no job skills and no family ties, hasten the deportation of undocumented aliens, deny public benefits to illegal immigrants, and double the nation's border patrol force by adding 1,000 agents each year for five years.

"This bill goes so far beyond what is reasonable that it jeopardizes the whole premise of our immigration system," said Cecilia Munoz, a deputy vice president at the National Council of La Raza.
